Market Assessment

Macro regime is firmly RISK-ON: VIX calm at 17.3, yield curve positive at +0.27%, and HY spreads ultra-tight at 2.66bps signal healthy credit and supportive conditions for equity longs. However, the portfolio is already maxed at 6/6 positions and heavily concentrated in semiconductors/AI infrastructure (AVGO, TSM, CLOU, plus mega-cap tech MSFT, GOOGL). No new capital should be deployed into the same crowded theme regardless of regime.

REGIME: RISK-ON

Notes: Portfolio is at maximum capacity (6/6) and despite a clean RISK-ON regime and multiple STRONG BUY scanner signals (CRM at RSI 29.8 oversold and AVGO are most attractive), no new entries are possible without an exit. Critically, the scanner top signals are dominated by semiconductors (AMD, SNDK, AMAT RSI 78.2, LRCX, KLAC, ASML, ARM, MRVL) — several deeply overbought (RSI 72-78) — and the book is already over-concentrated in AI/semi (AVGO, TSM, CLOU). Chasing more semi exposure would violate sector-overlap discipline and the 'never chase momentum' rule. The disciplined move is to hold all positions, none of which have breached the 8% stop, and let TSM run toward take-profit. If a non-semi/non-tech diversifier with both catalyst and chart confirmation emerged, the weakest thesis (GOOGL at -5.0%) would be the rotation candidate.

Memory applied: No prior trade history exists, so framework rules served as guardrails: avoided chasing the overbought semiconductor cluster (RSI 72-78) per the 'never chase momentum' mandate, respected the 6-position cap, enforced sector-overlap avoidance, and held positions inside the 8% stop rather than capitulating on paper losses.
