Market Assessment

Macro is firmly RISK-ON: VIX subdued at 17.3, yield curve positively sloped at +0.27%, and HY credit spreads exceptionally tight — all supportive for equity longs. However, the portfolio is fully allocated at 6/6 positions with a heavy concentration in semiconductors and mega-cap tech, leaving limited room for new diversification despite a constructive tape. The book is modestly underwater on most names, suggesting recent entries chased into weakness across correlated AI/semi exposure.

REGIME: RISK-ON

Notes: Portfolio is at maximum capacity (6/6) and cannot enter new positions despite attractive RISK-ON signals (CRM RSI 29.8, PLTR RSI 34.6, MSFT RSI 30.9 oversold setups). Concentration risk is the dominant concern: AVGO, TSM, CLOU, MSFT, GOOGL all carry correlated AI/semi/cloud beta — a single AI-capex sentiment shock would hit the entire book. No exits triggered as no position breached the 8% stop or showed a broken thesis. TSM is the lone winner and is given room to run toward the 20% target. With $67,755 cash unallocated, the book is conservatively positioned; if a position is later stopped out, CRM (deeply oversold, $50B buyback, software diversification) is the strongest candidate to rotate in to reduce semi overlap.

Memory applied: No prior trade history recorded, so decisions rely on framework discipline: avoided chasing momentum names (SNDK RSI 73, AMAT RSI 78.2, LRCX 72.2, KLAC 72.5) despite STRONG BUY tags per the 'never chase momentum' rule; respected the 6/6 max-position cap by declining new entries; held oversold quality names rather than panic-selling drawdowns above the 8% stop.
